FLCT’s program philosophy focuses on the individual growth of each student, while balancing a collaborative learning experience with a professional quality production. Casting depends on a wide variety of factors and the final result works like an intricate puzzle. While an individual might be perfectly suited for a particular role, there might not be an appropriate counterpart to support that choice. If the casting of one role changes, often the entire cast make-up changes to end up with a balanced final result that is in the best interest of the show as a whole. Casting can be affected by variables such as height, vocal range, physicality, “chemistry” with other actors, “vibe,” vision of the Director, etc. Casting teens and young performers in both adult and child roles also requires creating a “visual logic” to enhance the audience’s understanding of the story. Therefore, regardless of how “right” someone may be for a role that does not mean he or she will get it, or that they are right for it in this production. It is essential that students and parents understand that auditioners may not get the particular role they may want.

It takes every role in the script to tell the story and every role is important, regardless of perceived size. There is as much to be learned (and as much fun to be had) as a member of the ensemble or in a featured role as there is in playing the lead. Not everyone can get the lead and students and parents should understand that not getting the lead is not necessarily a reflection of the students’ talents or abilities.

Each show has very specific casting needs in terms of the type of characters, size of the cast, performance skills needed, etc. The size of the stage can also limit the number of people who can participate. There is not always a role for everyone who auditions. Sometimes a performer can be called back (asked to read from the script for a specific role,) but if that role goes to someone else, that performer may not be offered any role at all. There are no consolation prizes in casting.

Handling rejection is part and parcel of being an actor and if an auditioner is not fully prepared to not get a part, or to not get the role they want, then parents and students should seriously consider not auditioning.

I have read the above and discussed it with my child

I have read and understand the above

We Will Rock You Synopsis/Casting Breakdown

We Will Rock You is a musical based on the songs of British rock band Queen with a book by Ben Elton. The musical tells the story of a group of Bohemians who struggle to restore the free exchange of thought, fashion, and live music in a distant future where everyone dresses, thinks and acts the same. Musical instruments and composers are forbidden, and rock music is all but unknown.

Featuring more than 20 hit Queen songs, We Will Rock You follows two revolutionaries as they try to save Rock in a post-apocalyptic world. Featuring the songs "Another One Bites the Dust", "Bohemian Rhapsody", "Killer Queen", "We Will Rock You", "Somebody To Love", "We Are the Champions", "Don't Stop Me Now," and many more.

The tenth longest-running musical in West End history, We Will Rock You has been performed around the globe and seen by more than 16 million people including a resident Las Vegas production and a national tour that played the Arsht Center in Miami in 2013. FLCT's production will be the regional premiere.

GALILEO (Male) A misfit who keeps hearing strange voices and songs in his head which deliver messages he can't understand.
